Integrating Traumatic Memories: Conceptualization and Clinical Considerations in Evidence-based Approaches to Trauma Processing

After clients are stable enough to begin delving into traumatic memories, many clinicians struggle with determining which method to use for trauma processing. This webinar will specifically focus on the second phase of trauma recovery, processing and integrating traumatic memories in trauma treatment. Dr. Fatter will review the nature of traumatic memory and how it differs from non-traumatic memory. The two “gold standards” evidence-based models for trauma exposure therapy will be presented: prolonged exposure therapy and cognitive processing therapy. In addition, eye movement desensitization and reprocessing (EMDR) and internal family systems, two research-supported models, will also be discussed. This webinar will describe how each model differs in its conceptualization of trauma and specific treatment approach in integrating traumatic memories. A case example will be used. Clinical considerations including strategies to know your client is or is not ready for trauma processing will be presented. In addition, ways to determine your client is “done” with the trauma processing stage of treatment will be reviewed.

Outline

1. What is Trauma Processing?
2. Is Your Client Ready for Trauma Processing?
3. Why is Trauma Processing Necessary?
4. Evidence-based Treatment Models
   - Prolonged Exposure Therapy
   - Cognitive Processing Therapy
   - EMDR
   - Internal Family Systems
   - Case Example

Our seminars are available in two formats: The first is a live, interactive webinar. If the webinar time is not convenient for you, you can purchase the Home Study version. It is a recorded version of the webinar. You will have to pass a test to earn CE’s for both the live webinar and the Home Study version.

Learning Objectives

- At the end of this seminar, participants will be able to:
  1. Report clinical issues that mean that clients are not ready for trauma processing.
  2. Explain factors in deciding which trauma processing model to use in trauma treatment.
  3. Describe 4 research-supported trauma processing models.
  4. Identify culturally relevant information to find out from clients before trauma processing.

Seminars Schedule

Typically begins at 11 AM ET and ends at 2:15 PM Eastern time. There is one 15 minute break. However, check the webinar schedule.

The Presenter

Daphne Fatter, Ph.D. earned a Masters in Transpersonal Counseling Psychology from Naropa University in 2006. She was awarded her doctorate in Counseling Psychology from The Pennsylvania State University in 2011 and completed her clinical internship at the University of Tennessee Counseling Center. She completed a post-doctoral fellowship in Clinical Psychology at the Trauma Center, an affiliate of the Boston University School of Medicine, under the supervision of Dr. Bessel van der Kolk, MD.
